Headline:
Heavy rain for some Tuesday. A chance of sunshine Wednesday.

Today:
Becoming increasingly cloudy as an area of rain moves erratically northeast across the region. The rain will be locally heavy but should ease during the afternoon, with a chance of brief sunny spells in the far west late. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
A few clear spells in the evening but becoming generally cloudy overnight, with extensive low cloud, areas of mist and a few outbreaks of drizzle, especially over the Chiltern hills. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Wednesday:
A damp start but an improving picture on Wednesday, bright with a few sunny spells and perhaps the odd afternoon shower. Feeling warm. A dry, largely clear evening. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Dry and bright or sunny on Thursday. Breezy, increasingly cloudy on Friday, with rain arriving from the west late. A cloudy, damp start on Saturday, then sunny spells and showers.
